OUR ORGANIZATION

We are committed to the next generation of civic leaders.

We esteem youth's pre-existing cultural capital (Yosso, 2005) and Black Finesse (Mackey, 2020). We utilize an eclectic of critical theories of race to honor the lived experiences and civic wisdom of Black youth and youth of color. It is the disposition of YAASPA that for students to engage in healing praxis (hooks, 2014) and sociopolitical development (Watts et al, 1998) they must be co-creators of their learning environments.

- Foundational organization pillars:
- Academic, Career, and Civic Efficacy
- Civic Engagement
- Civic Literacy
- Racial Identity Development
